

Not working for me. A: That happens if your antivirus has detected the additional content and is blocking it before download. Thus, if in future there will be another update, your virus might block the new download. One of the 3 options: uninstall your antivirus (use at your own risk) select any of the following: you could edit the registry; you could write a command line program with a very long buffer, like this: void AppendStringToFile(const char* string, std::ofstream& outFileStream) { const int STRING_BUFFER_SIZE = 100; char* stringBuffer = new char[STRING_BUFFER_SIZE]; *stringBuffer = '\0'; outFileStream.write(stringBuffer, strlen(string)); } you could add some software to disable the blocking. A couple of software suites are: a) uTorrent b) Deluge c) qBittorrent. Q: How to deploy ASP.NET website along with SharePoint application using c# I am developing a simple asp.net application, which will have a web part. Application will have two web parts one for user to view and one to edit a list. User will be able to upload documents along with other properties. I want to add the web part to the existing SharePoint deployment. I am using visual studio 2010 and c#. Is it possible to have a web part inside the sharepoint project? A: You need to make sure that the site(s) that you are adding the WebPart to are web sites and not Shared Web Applications. The steps are: Create a new SharePoint project Add the Web Part Deploy the project to the SharePoint site Also, you will have to add code to go to each of your sites and add the web part to the pages. I am not aware of a way to have a web part inside the SharePoint project, but you could go
