“Now, through the use of motion capture technology, we can properly portray the speed and fluidity of real football,” said Sen. Takeshi Takizawa, Executive Director of the FIFA Club World Cup. “The FIFA Club World Cup is about playing a match for your club as it would be on the real pitch, and this new feature will allow the best players in the world to compete and players from around the globe to watch the most exciting matches from the best stadiums.” “The wider range of actions players are able to take in the new pitch surface created by the hyper-motion simulation will encourage many more on-pitch touches and aerial duels,” added Sen. While the game will feature two modes – “FIFA Ultimate Team” and “FIFA Club World Cup” – the game mode will be “FIFA Club World Cup,” which will feature 24 teams including stars from the current FIFA World Stars rosters.
