McGreevey, Turner & McGreevey, contra. ATKINSON, Presiding Justice. The exceptions to the overruling of the demurrers are reasserted in a bill of exceptions. The one exception that we think it necessary to consider is the bill of exceptions in the case of Pearcy v. Wilkerson, as amended. In that case the petition alleged that the infant Pearson was a patient at a hospital in the State of New York, and that the defendant, Wilkerson, was employed as a nursing assistant and caretaker of the infant, and while so employed was entrusted with the care, custody and control of the infant Pearson, in his room in the hospital at New York, in violation of the rules and regulations of the hospital; and that while so employed, the defendant took the infant Pearson into a cesspool in the hospital room and there allowed, suffered, and permitted the infant to *371 receive a serious and fatal wound, thereby inflicting upon the infant severe and permanent injuries, from which he will continue to suffer during his life, and that the death of the infant resulted directly and proximately from the negligence of the defendant in his employment as nursing assistant at the hospital in New York. The amended petition further alleged that the defendant negligently allowed and permitted the infant Pearson to go into the cesspool, and that this negligence was the prox
