You will need to verify your ownership of your domain name. Once your account is verified you will be able to create new RSS feeds from the following sites: At the request of the RSS 2.0 specification, the default HTTP authentication mechanism for accessing RSS 2.0 feeds is Basic HTTP authentication. You can modify this to use either cookies or persistent HTTP connections. Overview of the default usage and authentication scheme for RSS 2.0 feeds. Create a New RSS Feed First you must create a new RSS feed at the site you want to add to your list. For this example we will add a feed from the "New York Times" news service. Once you have created a new RSS feed, go to the custom reader app, and add it to your list of feeds. In this example, we are going to add it to our home screen. It is important to note that Custom Reader will allow you to view this RSS feed on your home screen, without leaving your application. It will be accessible via the App Store icon. Accessing Your List To view the feeds on your home screen, simply click the "Feeds" icon on your home screen (this is a blue arrow icon). Once the icon is in view, you can click it to open the list of RSS feeds in Custom Reader. From there you can access the New York Times RSS feed. It is important to note that you can add any RSS feed you want to your list. You will be able to view this feed within your custom reader,
