The brewery was established on a farm in New Providence, New Jersey. Small was a successful real estate developer and private pilot, having designed and owned a small plane that he flew commercially for many years. Small had earlier worked in the brewing industry, installing an American Maltings maltings plant in White Plains, New York. In the early 1990s, Small partnered with Paul Sowa, a New Jersey real estate developer, and with Sowa and his company Paul E. Small & Company, Inc., in 1991, Small and Sowa purchased the farm that the brewery sits on. Empire Malts was formally established in 1993 and later changed its name to the Empire Brewing Company to better reflect its expanding line of beers. The brewery was also the site of the New Jersey Wing of the National Brewers Cup Beer Tasting Competition held in March, 2004. Empire Brewing was featured on the TV show Brew Masters as a key part of the second season, in 2011. The show featured James Buchan of Buchan Bros. Brewery

Are there any free apps for Windows 10? Windows 10 provides many apps and utilities as paid, with some free as well. Screen Free provides high quality video editing and screen capture capabilities. It allows you to record the screen as well as capture any specific section of the desktop and save it as an image or video. The application allows you to combine images and video in various ways. If you are looking to screen record only one section of the desktop, for instance, the taskbar or the screen, Screen Free is the best free app for that. Another feature of Screen Free is that it allows you to split any video into smaller sections (separated by time) and save them as a series of images. Windows Flip provides a screen capture and video recording utility. It works exactly like the Screen Recorder. One thing to note though, Windows Flip can only record half of the screen, so you may end up with a very narrow screen recording. This is the only downside of the application, but if that is not a problem for you, then Windows Flip is the best free utility for recording and sharing your screen. MyScreen is another tool that works with video recording and screen sharing. It can record the whole desktop, split the desktop into multiple sections, and present them on multiple monitors. You can also take a screenshot at any time. 16. How to disable the log in screen? Windows 10 comes with a light and dark theme, which can be adjusted from Settings => Personalization => Colors. You can disable the log in screen as well by following the steps below. Step 1: Open Settings Step 2: Click the Personalization icon Step 3: Click the Colors icon Step 4: Find and press the "Set theme" button in the Settings panel (see image below) Step 5: You will find a new option to choose the Dark Theme. Pages Thursday, July 18, 2012 Not in Her Court: The Case of Trina Greig by Elizabeth Heald I just finished reading Elizabeth Heald's Not in Her Court and I really enjoyed it! This book was a quick read and I thoroughly enjoyed reading about the lives of two southern girls. It was a quick story but one that had me questioning a lot of things, such as what do you do if the man you thought was your soul mate is not who he says he is? Do you let him go, should you let him go? Heath and Christie are best friends. Christie was the first person to know of Heath's infidelity and she is the one who brought him back to Trina, even though she is very concerned about her own safety. After all, she has never been a very nice girl but after Heath starts to make up for his past mistakes she finds herself thinking about how kind of a man he is. Heath and Trina seem to have a lot in common, or so she thought. The problem is that Christie is Heath's sister. She also was the reason he cheated on his wife, Whitney. Since Heath and Whitney were best friends before Heath had an affair with Whitney, Christie and Heath's relationship was always strained, even though Whitney and Heath loved each other. There is always a price when dealing with the emotional trauma of infidelity. Christie knows that Whitney is going to want to stay with Heath even though he is in love with Trina. Whitney knows that Christie has feelings for
