The good news is that you can automate your B2B sales process and e-mail marketing is the tool you need to automate your sales process. E-mail marketing works because it is targeted and personal. These two characteristics alone mean that you can reach specific prospects or customers who would otherwise have been lost in the sea of information. Most people are so overwhelmed with e-mails from large, unknown companies, that they consider them spam. This situation will change rapidly as more and more companies adapt an "opt-in" marketing strategy and start using e-mail marketing as a cost-effective way of reaching their customers. And it is just as possible to Sarbacane 2 was designed for the creation of mass mailing campaigns. It is a versatile tool for every company, whether large or small, who wishes to build and manage a customer database, promote their company image, distribute information about their products or services, conduct business with clients, or gain a competitive edge through advertising. Like the predecessor, Sarbacane 2 is a Windows based application which offers a unique real-time behavioural analysis tool and a powerful content editor. It also boasts several additional options, such as the creation of websites, photo albums, birthday e-cards, and automatic reminders. Sarbacane 2 has a new, user friendly interface that is perfectly compatible with the Microsoft Office suite and its latest versions. Designed to work in tight competition with Microsoft Outlook, it offers the same set of features and allows the users to import, send and track all the mailings. Sarbacane 2 is also perfectly compatible with several other application such as Lotus Notes, Sybase and ProgOffice. The client simply connects to the e-mail server via an electronic mail connection and the application provides a user friendly interface to select and preview all the mailings that are required for the mass mailing campaigns. The e-mail servers, which can be either Microsoft Exchange Server or Lotus Domino, give Sarbacane 2 the ability to monitor what is sent, the features used and the behaviour of the recipients, which enables the user to tailor the messages according to their audience and sell the most appropriate product. Other features include:

- Sending the mailings: send out the mass mailing to the desired group or target audience; select the format and make a final preview before sending.
- Managing and evaluating the mailings: assign the mailings to a particular contact, assign an e-mail address to a client or supplier, maintain a blacklist of unwanted or unresponsive e-mail addresses and check the target audience.
- The new features enable users to create and manage customer database files, send e-mails to the customers of a specified e-mail address, to select a particular period of time and send a special exclusive offer based on the particular contact, to design customized canvassing programs to persuade potential clients, and track the mailings by entering the subject line, sender and recipients for the tracking log.
- A new form design feature allows the user to edit the data for each of the contacts of the list in a grid and to create forms based on data
